I. PURPOSE, MISSION & VISION

- A. The purpose of the Council of State Neurosurgical Societies is to provide a national forum for the State Neurosurgical Societies of the United States. This forum is primarily for discussion, consideration, and proposals of action regarding socioeconomic issues concerning Neurological Surgery.
- B. The Mission Statement for the Council of State Neurosurgical Societies is as follows:
- To be the premier socioeconomic resource in neurosurgery through patient and physician advocacy, education, and leadership training
- C. The Vision Statement for the Council of State Neurosurgical Societies is as follows:
- The CSNS will be an efficient and diverse organization collaborating with other neurosurgery and professional medical organizations to address socioeconomic policies that impact neurosurgical practice and our delivery of quality neurosurgical care to our patients. The CSNS will be the leading neurosurgical resource on socioeconomic issues including healthcare policy, third party and governmental regulatory issues, practice management, socio-economic education, patient experience, and leadership, representing all voices of neurosurgery. The CSNS will foster bi-directional communication with state, regional, and national neurosurgery organizations and CSNS committees on socioeconomic issues, and will provide a forum for focused dialogue, including a resolution process.
- D. Deliberations and recommendations of the Council of State Neurosurgical Societies are to be presented directly to the:
1. Board of Directors of the AANS
 2. Executive Committee of the CNS
- E. The AANS Board of Directors and the CNS Executive Committee will respond in written form to action items approved by the CSNS.

II. MEMBERSHIP

The Council of State Neurosurgical Societies shall derive membership from three sources:

A. Selected delegates from the states

1. Each State Neurosurgical Society, including Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia, will be represented in Council deliberations by selected delegates. A selected delegate must be an active member of either the AANS or CNS.
2. The Council shall be divided into four (4) geographical Quadrants (Regions) as follows:

Quadrant 1 NORTHEAST			Quadrant 2 NORTHWEST (Midwest)
CT		NJ	AK	MI	OR
DE		NY	IA	MN	SD
MA		PA	ID	MT	UT
ME		RI	IL	ND	WA
NH		VT	IN	NE	WI
			KS	OH	WY

Quadrant 3 SOUTHEAST			Quadrant 4 SOUTHWEST
AL	KY	PR	AZ	HI	NV
AR	MD	SC	CA	LA	OK
DC	MO	TN	CO	NM	TX
FL	MS	VA
GA	NC	WV

3. State Neurosurgical Society delegate representation shall be determined by a ratio of one (1) delegate per fifty (50) member neurosurgeons of that State Society. (Example: A State Society having fifty (50) or fewer member neurosurgeons will have one delegate and a State Society having fifty-one (51) to one-hundred (100) member neurosurgeons will have two (2) delegates, and so on.) The list will be updated annually. State Society members who are residents in neurosurgery and candidate members of the AANS or CNS, or retired neurosurgeons who maintain membership, may be included in the state society membership census.
4. Each State Neurosurgical Society will select its authorized number of delegates by whatever method of election it so chooses. Alternate delegates may be selected. Prior to each biannual CSNS meeting, the Recording Secretary of the Council will query each State Society President to confirm the identity of the delegates and alternates from each state for the upcoming CSNS meeting. It is recommended that the delegates be selected for terms no less than three (3) years.

5. In the event several states unite to meet as a group and formalize this as a Regional Society, the Regional Society shall be entitled to have one member for each state represented. A state may vote either as part of a Regional Society or on its own. States may not be represented via both a Regional Society and its own state society.
6. A State Society member who is elected to the AANS Board position as Regional Director remains a voting member of the Quadrant. The State Society then has the option to select another delegate.
7. Delegates selected from the States or regional societies shall have a vote in all matters pertaining to both the Council and in deliberations of their own Quadrant. Alternate delegates vote only if present in place of the delegate.

B. Members appointed by the Presidents of the AANS and the CNS.

1. The second source of membership shall be composed of delegates appointed (AANS and CNS appointed delegates) by the Presidents of the AANS and CNS. Said delegates must hold a membership category in the AANS and/or CNS. In special circumstances, a neurosurgical resident trainee may be appointed by either the AANS or CNS with the approval of the Chair of the CSNS.
2. Each president may appoint delegate members for a period of 3 years, renewable upon reappointment at the end of each 3-year period.
3. The total number of appointed members to CSNS shall not exceed more than one-third of the total delegates (state and appointed). An equal number of Delegates shall be appointed by the AANS President and by the CNS President. 4. AANS and CNS appointed delegates to the CSNS will have a vote in all matters except the Quadrant Caucuses.
5. The AANS Young Neurosurgeons Committee may appoint an ex-officio liaison to the Council. This person may attend the biannual Council meetings and participate in committee work, but will not have voting privileges in Council matters.

C. Members selected by the Quadrants or appointed by the Chairperson of the CSNS

1. There will be thirteen (13) Resident Fellows of the CSNS with full voting privileges. Three fellows will be selected from each quadrant and one fellow will be selected by the military delegate(s) with input from the Joint Committee of Military Neurosurgeons. Resident Fellows serve for one year. These 13 fellows will be selected at the spring semi-annual meeting to attend the next two consecutive meetings. Changes in this rotation may occur and be approved at the discretion of the CSNS executive committee. Re-election is allowed but diversity in representation is encouraged.

2. From among the thirteen (13) Residents Fellows completing their fellowship and all previous CSNS fellows who have completed their fellowship and remain in residency, one fellow will be selected by the CSNS Executive Committee to serve for an additional year. This fellow will be named the Melany Thomas Senior Socioeconomic Fellow. The Melany Thomas Senior Socioeconomic Fellow will be a voting member of the CSNS and will include assignment to the executive committee.
3. There will be three (3) military delegate members, one each from the Navy, Army and Air Force, with full voting privileges. These delegates will be selected by the Joint Committee of Military Neurosurgeons. These delegates may attend and participate fully in quadrant business.
4. There will be one (1) liaison as well as one (1) alternate liaison from both the national neurosurgery Physician Assistant (PA) society as well as the national neurosurgery Nurse Practitioner (NP) society chosen by each society subject to approval by the Chairperson of the CSNS. These liaisons do not have voting privileges but may give testimony during plenary sessions of the Council.
5. There will be one (1) delegate member as well as one (1) alternate member from the Neurosurgery Executive's Resource, Value and Education Society (NERVES) chosen by NERVES and subject to approval by the Chairperson of the CSNS. The NERVES delegate and their alternate will serve as non-voting members of the CSNS as well as the CSNS Executive Committee.
6. If a state does not have a neurosurgical society, the Chairperson of the CSNS may appoint one or more neurosurgeons from that state (not to exceed one per 50 practicing neurosurgeons within the state) as nominated by the quadrant chair for that state to act as delegates for that state for a period not to exceed two years. The appointees will be charged with the development of a new state society or a re-invigoration of a non-functioning state society. In the event of the (re)establishment of the state society, the state society will select its own delegates who will replace those appointed by the Chairperson.

D. Participation by affiliate members

1. The Council encourages participation in certain aspects of its activities by individuals who are not members of the Council via one of the categories listed above.
2. Affiliate members are welcome to serve on CSNS standing committees and participate in committee work.
3. Affiliate members are welcome to provide testimony during debate of resolutions at the plenary sessions if recognized to do so by the Chair of the CSNS. These individuals should identify themselves as affiliate members when approaching the microphone.

The appointed individual will be eligible to run for a full term on the Board of Directors at the expiration of the unexpired term as noted in the AANS Bylaws, Article IV, Section 3.

- E. At least eighteen months prior to the vacancy of a Quadrant Regional Director, the Corresponding Secretary of the CSNS will notify the State Society Presidents of that Quadrant. Each State or Regional Society, shall be requested to nominate one person for Quadrant Regional Director. That nominee need not be from that state but must be from the Quadrant and a member of the AANS.

The nominees submitted by the State or Regional Societies will be discussed by the Quadrant delegates attending the CSNS Spring Meeting and two final nominees will be selected from the nominees submitted. Subsequently, the Corresponding Secretary of the CSNS shall submit the names of the two nominees for Quadrant Regional Director to the AANS Nominating Committee. Following election as Regional Director and assumption of that position, the Quadrant Regional Director will become an ex-officio member of that Quadrant.

APPENDIX A TO RULES AND REGULATIONS

Procedures of the Council of State Neurosurgical Societies (CSNS) as Representative Assembly

The fundamental construction of the representative assembly centers around the concept of Resolutions from assembly members and reports from committees and sections are the sources of business for assembly decision. The resolution is in concept like a legislative statute, being derived by a similar process. The difference is authority conferred upon a CSNS resolution; it is binding upon the Council, advisory to the parent bodies (AANS/CNS), and informational to the constituent organizations (state societies and members). Similarly, committee reports with recommendations for assembly action function like committee resolutions; they constitute assembly business and require debate and adoption to become assembly policy.

The Resolution

A resolution should be a directive disciplined in its subject, intent, development process, and format. The subject should be important beyond personal agendas, well researched by the sponsors, pertinent to neurosurgical practice, and within the realm of influence of the organization. The intent should be the improvement of the organization or an aspect of neurosurgical practice in relation to the socioeconomic environment. The development process should include background research verifying the need, importance, and member support for the proposal, the distillation of reasoning to a succinct statement, and the critique by fellow members prior to submission. The format should conform to a standard resolution design.

Design

The resolution should be in two parts. The first part is the rationale for the directive and contains all the reasons necessary to justify consideration of the issue by the assembly. The rationale should contain the information necessary to persuade a voting delegate of the virtue of the proposal and the need to support it. The rationale is recognized by the series of "Whereas..." conjunctions introducing the supporting or justifying statement. The number of "Whereas" justifications is unlimited, but should be guided by pertinence, brevity, and good sense.

The second part is the resolve containing the specific position, belief, or actions proposed by the sponsor. The resolve may be a single statement or multiple logically separate statements, each preceded by the directive "Resolved, that ...". The resolve(s) should be clear, derived logically from the rationale, reasonably possible to achieve, and within the ability and authority of the organization to accomplish.

A brief fiscal impact note should accompany the resolution, allowing judgment of the financial impact of the resolution on the organization, to help guide voting decisions.

Content

Resolutions should deal with practice and socioeconomic issues (such as reimbursement, medico legal, Rules & Regulations for the Operation of the Council of State Neurosurgical Societies manpower, and neurosurgical practice issues), or states issues. Resolutions regarding any subject on which a National organization may serve as spokesperson for the specialty are appropriate. Structure and function within the CSNS may also properly be the subject of a resolution.
Approved by the AANS and CNS (December 2025)

Any other issue pertaining to the specialty may be the subject of a resolution, if a member feels a public hearing among his peers is needed. However, a Council resolution on a subject outside of its primary area of interest may carry little weight and have little effect. Only if a member feels an issue is not being recognized or managed properly by current organizational structure, despite efforts to correct the problem directly, should the public forum of the CSNS representative assembly be used to poll member opinion or generate member support for action.

Resolutions should be the basis of CSNS actions and policy recommendations, and should be a reference against which future proposed resolutions, policies, or actions are measured.

Parliamentary Action

Business of the assembly is handled according to rules of parliamentary procedure, pursuant to the guidance of the current edition of “The Standard Code of Parliamentary Procedure” by Alice Sturgis and revised by the American Institute of Parliamentarians (The Standard Code).

Testimony in Reference Committee hearings may be offered by any CSNS member. The Reference Committee Chairperson may permit testimony from non-CSNS members of the AANS, CNS, or state neurosurgical societies. Non-neurosurgeons with particular knowledge or expertise may also be recognized by the Chairperson to give testimony at Reference Committee hearings.

Only CSNS members (delegates and appointees) may debate, make motions, and vote in the full assembly. Alternate delegates may participate in debate only if credentialed to vote for an absent delegate. Non-CSNS observers may not actively participate during assembly debate unless specifically approved to do so by the Chair or other presiding Officer. AANS Board and CNS Executive Committee members may participate in debate, but may not vote.

The objective of this process is to bring member opinion before the assembly, decide business by parliamentary procedure, and guide organizational socioeconomic and political policy by member collective opinion.

The process of handling a resolution is divided into 17 individual steps, adapted to the structure, size, and expected business volume of the Council. Although the process may seem complex, it follows a logical pattern and ensures the safeguards necessary for democratic fairness, orderly and disciplined conduct of business, and effective action.

1. Resolutions may originate with any individual State Society member or AANS/CNS member. However, in order to introduce the resolution before the Council, the resolution must be sponsored by a CSNS state delegate or appointee, who submits it to the CSNS for consideration
2. The member may alternatively request a state or regional neurosurgical society to sponsor and introduce the resolution. If accepted, that resolution becomes the property of the state society and may be altered by the state or regional organization.
3. The delegate may submit a member's resolution, or the delegate's own resolution, to the state society for sponsorship, in order to increase the weight of collective opinion supporting the resolution. If a resolution is to be introduced on behalf of a State Society, Caucus, CSNS

Committee, Representative Section, or Quadrant without a specified individual as sponsor, a formal vote of the sponsoring entity must be undertaken and the result recorded in official minutes of the entity so as to indicate that the resolution represents the sense of the State Society or Quadrant. This should be accompanied by a statement at the bottom of the resolution indicating that the resolution is endorsed by the State Society as indicated by the results of a formal vote.

4. The CSNS delegate, alternate, or appointee may submit a member's or a personal resolution directly to the CSNS Corresponding Secretary for consideration at the next semiannual Council meeting. Resolutions may also be submitted to the CSNS Corresponding Secretary by a CSNS Committee, working collectively, to increase the weight of opinion supporting the resolution. The Corresponding Secretary accepts all resolutions without censure, although the delegate may be advised regarding the form and style of expression. No alteration in the resolution may be made without the consent and approval of the sponsor, who is entitled to review any alteration to be certain the substance of the resolution conforms to the original intent.

Resolutions must be received by a deadline date (6 weeks prior to the semiannual meeting, or by the interim Executive Committee meeting, whichever is later) in order to be reviewed at Executive Committee meeting and referred to the appropriate committees for study and debate and then accepted on the calendar. This deadline allows the resolutions to be distributed to all CSNS members prior to the meeting for their consideration and discussion within the state. Resolutions submitted after the interim Executive Committee meeting, but within the 6 week submission time deadline will be assigned to appropriate committees at the discretion of the Chairperson with notification to the Recording Secretary.

Distribution of resolutions prior to the meeting allows better representative opinion and argument to be developed.

Late resolutions can be considered, but must be reviewed and accepted by the Executive Committee. The urgency and reason for delay are considered in accepting late resolutions. Strong justification should be considered necessary for acceptance of late resolutions, which bypass the important step of member consideration, research, and discussion prior to meeting. Properly submitted resolutions allow delegates to develop a solid basis of opinion.

5. Any resolution submitted by a state neurosurgical society is forwarded to the CSNS Corresponding Secretary, who handles it just as individual delegate resolutions are handled.
6. The Corresponding Secretary forwards all resolutions to all CSNS members 2-4 weeks prior to the meeting. The states may caucus (e.g., via the state society's executive committee or board of directors) to instruct the delegate(s) how to debate and vote, bringing the weight of collective opinion to the assembly.
7. The Corresponding Secretary submits the resolutions to the members of the Reference Committee. The Executive Committee may include any background material pertinent to the Reference Committee members along with the resolutions.

Reference Committee: Seven CSNS members compose the Reference Committee. Each Quadrant and the AANS and CNS caucuses selects one member to sit on the Reference Committee at the next semiannual meeting. Quadrant Reference Committee members are selected for one meeting only, and the same member should not be selected for more than one meeting in succession. The seventh member of the Reference Committee is the Chairperson of the Committee and is responsible for leading discussion and presenting CSNS decisions at the plenary session.

The CSNS Vice-Chairperson (or another officer aside from the CSNS Chairperson) serves as Reference Committee Chairperson.

Only one Reference Committee is appointed. If the number of resolutions becomes unwieldy, a second Reference Committee, composed of different Quadrant representatives and chaired by another Executive Committee member, is appointed.

8. The Reference Committee conducts an open hearing at the beginning of the semi-annual meeting. The purpose of the hearing is to gather testimony from any and all parties interested in rendering an opinion on each resolution. Any CSNS member may testify and the Chairperson may allow any non-member to testify who he feels has relevant knowledge or expertise. The Chairperson has latitude in establishing rules regarding the number and length of testimonies. However, the Chairperson must impartially allow adequate expression of supporting and dissenting opinions. The purpose of the hearing is to allow the Reference Committee members to hear all sides of the argument and to get an impression of the degree of support or opposition among the audience regarding the resolution. It also allows any member to have a full and fair hearing. Limitations on testimony pertain to equitable time limits, repetition of prior testimony, and relevance of testimony. The Reference Committee hearing improves the process of the debate and vote in the plenary session by clarifying arguments, allowing caucus deliberation on the arguments, and shortening debate at the voting session. The Reference committee members listen to gather information and may question speakers for clarification, but do not debate the issue. No resolution may be amended or otherwise altered during testimony, although suggestions may be made to the Reference committee to do so in its recommendation to the assembly.
9. After the Reference Committee hearing, each Quadrant caucus discusses the resolutions and the arguments heard and tries to reach a Consensus opinion to be expressed during the debate in the assembly. Individuals within the Quadrant who differ from the opinion of the caucus may express a minority opinion as individuals during assembly debate.
10. The Reference Committee meets for an executive session to discuss the testimony heard and any background materials. The committee must reach a consensus opinion on each resolution and prepare a written report to the assembly. The report is in the form of a recommendation, with the option to adopt, to amend and adopt, to substitute and adopt, to refer (to the Executive Committee for further study and report to the assembly, or for decision), or to defeat (not adopt). The committee develops an explanation for each of its recommendations, with the recommendations and explanation printed and available to CSNS members prior to the plenary voting session. If the Reference Committee is unable to reach unanimous consensus, a dissenting minority recommendation and explanation may be reported.

11. A written report of the Reference Committee recommendations is made available to members of the assembly prior to the meeting the following morning. The Chairperson of the Reference Committee reports the Committee's recommendation for action on each resolution. This introduces the resolution to the floor of the assembly for debate, alteration, and vote. The assembly may vote as the Reference Committee recommends, or debate the issue, alter the resolution or motion, and vote to adopt, not adopt, or refer. The meeting is conducted by a speaker, who serves as an impartial facilitator, but does not enter into the debate. The speaker may be the CSNS Chairperson or any other designated member. A vice speaker may assist the speaker in conducting business.
12. The opinion of the Quadrant caucus may be brought to the floor during debate by a member who speaks for the Quadrant. Any member speaking in debate must identify himself, his state, whether speaking as an individual or representing a group (state, Quadrant), and whether speaking in favor of or opposed to the motion currently being discussed. Only credentialed CSNS delegates (or alternate delegate, if substituting for the delegate) and appointees may participate in floor debate and vote of the assembly. Non-members may be permitted to enter the debate by a majority vote of the assembly to temporarily suspend the rule. AANS Board and CNS Executive Committee members may participate in debate, but may not vote.
13. After assembly debate and vote, resolutions are returned to the Executive Committee for appropriate action, as determined by the assembly vote. Defeated resolutions are discarded. Referred resolutions are assigned to the appropriate committee (14) for research and reporting to the Executive Committee, which in turn submits accepted committee reports to the next meeting for information or action. Adopted resolutions are either enacted by the CSNS Executive Committee if pertaining to matters within its jurisdiction, or reported to the AANS Board of Directors and CNS Executive Committee (15) for approval, if pertaining to action or policy of the AANS or CNS, or one of the joint sections or non-CSNS standing committees.
14. Final decisions are relayed back to CSNS members in a communication following the semi-annual meeting summarizing the assembly actions and disposition of adopted motions. Filed reports (requiring no action) are submitted to all members for information. Reports that make recommendations for action and are adopted are acted upon as are any other adopted motions.

Standing committees and representative sections carry out the delegated work of the assembly in the interim period between meetings. Committee assignments are received from the Executive Committee based on assembly actions. Topics or assigned tasks may arise from adopted resolutions, referred resolutions, requests for particular reports from the AANS or CNS officers, the CSNS Executive Committee, or the committee Chairperson. Committees submit finished reports to the Executive Committee. Committee reports accepted by the Executive Committee are submitted to the assembly for action before they are finally adopted. Reports may be simply informational or recommend action. The content and conclusions of reports can be discussed in the Reference Committee and debated on the assembly floor. Reports can be filed if informational; adopted, if action is recommended; not adopted (defeated), if the action is rejected; or referred back to the Executive Committee if more information is needed. Reports do not become CSNS policy unless specifically adopted by the assembly. Filed reports are for information only and do not indicate the assembly's approval of the content.

APPENDIX B

TO RULES AND REGULATIONS OF THE COUNCIL OF STATE NEUROSURGICAL SOCIETIES (CSNS)

1. The standing committees are: Medico-Legal, Medical Practices, Coding and Reimbursement, Workforce, Neurotrauma and Emergency Neurosurgery, Communication and Education, and Patient Safety. The representational sections are: Young Neurosurgeons, Neurosurgeons as Medical Directors, and Senior Neurosurgeons.
2. Temporary (ad hoc) committees chosen for a specific function shall have a committee life of no more than three years unless reestablished by the Chairperson of the CSNS.
3. The Committee Chairperson shall be appointed by the Chairperson of the CSNS for a period of two years. The Chairperson may be re-appointed for only one more two year term. A Committee Chairperson serves at the pleasure of the Chairperson of the CSNS and may be replaced by the Chairperson. If a Committee Chairperson is elected as a CSNS officer or Quadrant Chairperson, the committee Chairpersonship must be vacated.
4. New members, at the time of first meeting registration, will be given a description of the committee structure as well as the mission of each committee and then asked to select a committee they wish to join. After their first committee meeting, the Chairperson of the committee should contact the member and discuss the functions of the committee and determine the skills and interests of the new member.
5. At the interim Executive Committee meeting and up to the final resolution submission deadline six weeks prior to the plenary session, the Chairperson of the CSNS should give directed assignments to the various committees based on the resolutions that have been submitted for consideration. The assignments should reflect the function of the specific committees. In some cases, several committees may be assigned a resolution.
6. The Chairperson of a committee should assign specific material to a given member of the committee. That member should be able to bring the specific information assigned to the committee meeting prior to the time of the plenary session. If the member cannot be present at a meeting, then the information should be submitted to the committee Chairperson prior to the committee meeting.
7. The information gleaned from the research of the committee members is discussed, and specific information developed for the plenary session. Each committee presents appropriate testimony at the plenary session based on research of the resolutions.
